The San Jose BioCenter Welcomes New Sponsor Yoh Scientific

April 28, 2008, San Jose, California – The San Jose BioCenter announced today a new one-year sponsorship agreement with Yoh Scientific.

“With today’s ever-tightening labor market and growing demand for highly-skilled biotech professionals, finding and securing talent can be a great challenge,” says Jim Lanzalotto, Vice President of Strategy and Marketing for Yoh. “We welcome this opportunity to share our experiences with the BioCenter residents and to provide these biotech executives with the knowledge and tools that will help them navigate their way through the competition and identify and obtain the best talent available.”

“Yoh is an ideal partner for the BioCenter,” says Gayle Fagan, Managing Director at the BioCenter. “Our goal at the BioCenter is to support early stage ventures and help them move quickly from concept to commercialization. The only way they can do that is to employ the best highly-skilled talent out there. Their educational workshops are a wonderful opportunity for our organization to address the hiring needs of these biotech CEOs and provide them with the advice and tactics they can use to find the right talent they need to support and grow their business.”

Yoh Scientific offers pro-bono advice to the BioCenter client companies, and recently held a workshop on “Best Practices for Identifying & Hiring Biotech Talent”. For more information on how to become a sponsor of the San Jose BioCenter, please contact Gayle Fagan at gayle@sjbiocenter.com.
